Hello Georgia Cities Week Participant!

On behalf of the Georgia Municipal Association, I'd like to thank you for your participation in this state-wide event. Your participation can help ensure the success of this program!

Enclosed are materials you may find helpful as you plan for your celebration. These materials are simply meant to be used as a guide. You may vary or alter the activities to create a celebration of city government that is uniquely yours. I encourage you to participate in any way your city can, even if it's as simple as adopting the resolution recognizing Georgia Cities Week.

In addition, if your city would like extra "hands on deck" for any of the events—from serving food to city employees to picking up trash—let GMA know. GMA staff enjoy getting out into the cities they serve and would love to be a part of your Georgia Cities Week activities!

With questions and for more information, please contact Dana Goodall at 678-686-6220 or via email at dgoodall@gacities.com. Dana will also provide you with additional posters, stickers and the logo for reproducing if you need them.

Thank you again for your participation in Georgia Cities Week!

Tifton Mayor Julie Smith
Chair, Georgia Cities Week

October 3 – 9, 2021

Our Mission:

The Georgia Municipal Association (GMA) is sponsoring Georgia Cities Week from October 3-9, 2021 to showcase and celebrate cities and the many services they provide.

Cities provide an elevated level of service than most governments, are generally rated higher by the public than any other level of government, and yet, many residents are unaware of how city services impact their lives. Through Georgia Cities Week, GMA and related organizations hope to heighten the public's awareness of city government's role in enhancing the quality of life in communities.

GMA's Georgia Cities Week is part of an ongoing effort to raise public awareness about the services that cities perform and to educate the public on how city government works. Cities are encouraged to involve their local schools, businesses, legislators, Chambers of Commerce, media and civic clubs in planning Georgia Cities Week activities.

THE VALUE OF GEORGIA'S CITIES

CITIES PLAY A VITAL ROLE IN THE STATE'S ECONOMY.

Georgia cities comprise only 9.2% of the land area in Georgia.

Cities contain 44.1% of the population in Georgia.

Cities provide 68.9% of jobs in Georgia.

75.1% of Georgia cities have a population of 5,000 or less.

Cities account for 90.5% of GDP in Georgia.

CITIES ARE GROWING AT A FASTER RATE THAN THE STATE'S OVERALL POPULATION:

Population growth
in cities was 20.6%
between 2009 and 2019

Population growth
in the state was 10.4%
between 2009 and 2019.

27.5%

The population in Georgia cities increases during the daytime by 27.5% due to commuting, and cities provide services (water, sewer, fire and police protection, etc.) to both daytime and resident population.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS ARE INVESTING IN THE FUTURE:

MUNICIPAL REVENUES BY SOURCE, FY2019

MUNICIPAL EXPENDITURES BY CATEGORY, FY2019

SPLOST AND TSPLOST REVENUES

94%

of SPLOST referenda have been approved by local voters since 2001.

7.1

billion dollars in SPLOST revenues were distributed to local governments to pay for voter-approved capital projects between 2016 and 2020

28

Georgia counties have Single County TSPLOST in place (as of December 2020)

92 counties are either in a Single County TSPLOST or TIA Region (as of December 2020).

regions have implemented a Regional (TIA) TSPLOST (as of December 2020)

Local funds will not be enough – a long-term, strong local-state-federal partnership is needed to address our state's infrastructure needs.

Planning for Georgia Cities Week

Getting Started:

The first step, of course, is to block off the week of October 3-9 on the city calendar and to make sure key city officials and employees will be able to participate.

Designate one person at city hall as the contact for Georgia Cities Week. Circulate Georgia Cities Week information among city employees and ask for feedback on ideas for activities.

We also advise cities to create a Georgia Cities Week Planning Committee to help plan activities. Along with city employees, you may want to include representatives from the following groups:

- Chamber of Commerce
- Downtown Merchants
- Education
- Media
- Historical Society
- Garden Club
- Neighborhood Groups
- Civic Clubs
- Boy Scouts/Girl Scouts

Develop a timeline for Georgia Cities Week, listing the dates by which certain tasks need to be completed.

Publicity Opportunities:

Some ideas for publicizing your events include:

- Print Georgia Cities Week activities on utility bills or publish them on your local access cable channel
- Adopt a resolution recognizing “Georgia Cities Week”
- Write a letter to the editor about city government
- Write an op-ed piece for your local paper, telling your city’s “story.” This could be about its founding, parts of its history or the next chapter—where your city is going in the future or stories highlighting specific city projects or services
- Use the enclosed press release to let media outlets know of your plans
- Appear on local radio and television stations to educate the public about city government
- Ask your local paper to sponsor a coloring contest for younger children. Entries can be displayed in city hall.
- If you have a city website and/or social media, be sure to post all activities and information there as well.

Ideas and Tips for Publicizing Your Activities

To enhance statewide media coverage of Georgia Cities Week, please inform GMA about your local activities so we can help spread the word. Contact Kelli Bennett at kbennett@gacities.com.

Meet with the editor/publisher of your local newspaper(s), radio and television stations as well as the reporter(s) who typically cover city government, to brief them on Georgia Cities Week.

1. Discuss the reasons for Georgia Cities Week and the activities your city will sponsor.
2. Explore opportunities to partner with the media to help promote your activities.
3. Encourage the newspaper(s) to publish stories on different aspects of city government. The stories can run before Georgia Cities Week and/or during the week.
4. Continue to keep them regularly informed about Georgia Cities Week activities.

Timeline: Begin in Mid-August to early September.*

Contact local radio/television stations (typically, the producers of news and talk shows) to schedule appearances for city officials to discuss city government.

For best results, it's recommended to schedule appearances during Georgia Cities Week or the week before. Call the assignment editor at the radio/television station to pitch them on covering specific activities during Georgia Cities Week.

Timeline: At least three (3) to four (4) weeks in advance of the desired appearance date on talk and/or news show. Call the assignment editor one (1) to three (3) days in advance of a specific activity, as well as the day of the activity.*

Write a guest editorial that talks about Georgia Cities Week and the importance of cities, and submit it to your newspaper(s) editor or opinion page editor for use during Georgia Cities Week.

Timeline: Submit the guest editorial at least two (2) weeks in advance.*

Send a media advisory to alert media of upcoming activities and a press release(s) to publicize your activities. (A sample press release is provided. You are encouraged to adapt it as needed.)

Timeline: Send one (1) to three (3) days in advance of an event, subject to deadlines.*

Place and highlight your activities on your website with a link to GMA's Georgia Cities Week webpage. Note: Be sure to put your website address on ALL communications with the media!

Timeline: As soon as activities are formalized and announced*

Take photographs and/or videos of your activities. Submit them to your local newspaper(s) and to GMA for Georgia Cities Week coverage.

Timeline: During and after Georgia Cities Week*

Be Sure You Notify Media Well in Advance of Your Activities!

Level III

This level requires more elaborate planning and/or funding.

Shadowing

Work with a junior high or high school to allow students to “shadow” city officials at work

- Contact civics/government teacher to discuss using shadowing as an aid to teaching local government
- Pick one day where the students will be matched up with a department director (more than one student may be matched with city staffer)

Mock City Council Meeting[±]

One of the most common forms of participation, allows students to experience city government.

- Begin with an election among junior/senior high school students for positions in city government. Or, teacher may assign positions
- Students are given a real-life scenario and the various positions interested parties would have on the issue
- Public officials, business leaders, neighborhood associations may visit classrooms in the week before the mock council meeting to discuss how they would respond to the scenario
- The mock council meeting is usually held during a school assembly, with student “elected” officials conduct meeting, and participation of students designated as “department heads,” “public” and “press”
- City officials and city staff may want to be present for mock council meeting to add support, visibility.

Mock City Council Meeting II

Another way of doing this is for elected officials to either go to the schools or invite students to city hall for a mock meeting conducted by the city officials.

- Cities may want to prepare an agenda that highlights some of the issues students are most concerned with, such as debate about a curfew or parks and recreation.
- Prepare the agenda well in advance and allow students an opportunity to review it (usually at least a week in advance of meeting)
- If students are to play the roles of department heads, the public and the press at the council meeting, give them job descriptions, what their roles at the meeting would be and concerns each group might have about items on the agenda

[±] See insert on Mock City Council Meeting for timeline, design of Mock Council Meetings

Storytelling Contest

Invite members of your community, or specific age groups such as 15-24-year olds, to tell their story of your city through video, pictures or in words. You can use the theme of Georgia Cities Week, "Cities in the Spotlight" as the theme for the contest, i.e., tell the story of a person who was instrumental in your city's development or tell the story of a place in the city that holds special meaning to the individual. Or you may choose a different or no theme for the contest.

- Feature the entries on your website and/or Facebook page
- For video entries, consider a "screening" party where the community can get together to view the entries.
- Decide how winners will be selected: An open community vote or judges?
- Celebrate the winners!

 - Each contestant has a bell to ring to signify an answer
 - Emcee asks the question, first team to ring in can answer
 - Contestants may consult with team members, but can't go over 30 seconds
 - If the answer is incorrect, the other team has 30 seconds to answer
 - Points should be awarded for each correct answer; no points given for incorrect or incomplete answers
 - Winners are determined by the highest number of points
 - The winning team should be honored at the next City Council meeting
 - Local businesses may be willing to donate additional prizes for the winners and "runners up"
- May be aired on local access television station, where available

Career Day

Introduce high school students to the career opportunities available in city government.

- Schedule a career day at the high school through the school counselor's office or find out if a career day is already scheduled for juniors and seniors and if the city may participate
- Work with City Manager or Human Resources Department to gather job descriptions/requirements for positions within city government
- Ask department heads/employees to be on hand at career day to answer questions concerning what they do, what education/training is required

Scavenger Hunt

Send your residents on a scavenger hunt for information and history about your city.

- Create a form with questions for residents to answer, such as “According to the monument in the town square, where did General Whatshisface go after founding the City of Celebration?”
- Locations to send them to can include city cemeteries, utility departments, recreational facilities, etc.
- Ask for a signature from a downtown merchant on the form
- Make forms available at a central location, such as city hall or visitors center or at several merchants
- Correctly completed forms should be turned in to the city and a drawing held to award a prize or prizes.

On-Line Scavenger Hunt

If your city has a website, you may want to adapt the scavenger hunt to help educate your residents about the website and accustom them to finding information on your site.

- Create a form that can either be picked up in a central location or downloaded from the website.
- Ask questions such as, “What is the City of Celebration’s average police response rate?” and give information on where to find the information on the site.
- Be sure to ask for a signature on the form from a downtown business!
- Forms should be turned into city hall and a winner drawn from the correctly completed forms.

City 5K-Fun Run

Get your people moving! Organize a fun-run and/or 5K that shows off your downtown and your Parks and Rec. Department. Invite local clinics or hospitals to provide wellness screenings after the race and information on good nutrition, proper exercise and the importance of seeing a doctor regularly. If your event ends in a city park, you may want to combine this with an equipment display or city festival.

Be Sure You Notify Media Well in Advance of Your Activities!

Capitol Ideas

Georgia Cities Week also allows city leaders to show state legislators what's going on in their hometowns. Here are some activities specifically designed for legislators that you may want to incorporate into your Georgia Cities Week events:

City Tours

Take your senator and representatives on a tour of your city. Show them how grant funds have been used and progress the city has made; point out how your city addresses issues such as annexation, police and fire services, redevelopment and infrastructure improvements. While you will want to focus on the positive, don't be afraid to also indicate where your city needs the state's assistance. If there is more than one city in your county, you may want to team up to take your legislators on a tour of all the cities—make sure you coordinate in preparing an agenda, so you don't duplicate efforts! Also, invite someone from GMA's Governmental Relations Staff to accompany the tour.

Legislative Appreciation Luncheon/Dinner

Host a lunch or dinner as a "thank you" to your legislative delegation. Point out some of the ways in which the state and local governments have partnered together to improve the community (through streetscapes, GEFA loans, DCA grants and loans, etc). Thank the legislators for any specific piece of legislation that they have sponsored or supported that has helped your city or cities in general. GMA Governmental Relations staff can give you some ideas for this if needed.

Special Invitations

Send special invitations to your state leaders to include them in your other Georgia Cities Week events as well. If you are honoring city employees or community volunteers, your legislators may also want to be present to express their congratulations as well. Also invite them to facility tours, equipment displays, open houses or any other event that will help them better understand how cities operate, and the many services cities provide. Be sure to include GMA as well! GMA's Government Relations staff should attend events with city officials and legislators.

Sample Letter to the Editor for Georgia Cities Week

To the Editor:

During the week of October 3-9 (CITY NAME) will join other cities across Georgia in celebrating Georgia Cities Week. This week has been set aside to recognize the many services city governments provide and their contribution to a better quality of life in Georgia. Our theme, "Shaping the Future" reflects the role cities play in the state's history, economy and culture.

City government is truly government of, by and for the people – the people who are making the decisions about our community are your neighbors, business owners and community leaders. We are in this together, and we want our city to thrive.

We recognize that throughout our lifetimes, the average person will have more direct contact with local governments than with state or federal governments. Because of this, we feel a responsibility to ensure that the public knows how the city operates and feels connected to their city government.

During this week, we want to recognize the role city government plays in our lives: from historic preservation to trash collection to public safety to promoting the area's culture and recreation. We hope you will join us in this celebration and learn more about your city and how it operates for you.

Sincerely,

Mayor

Note: If you are doing additional Georgia Cities Week Activities, you will want to include an invitation to the public to attend those events.

Preparing for Mock City Council Meeting

Suggested age group – Junior or Senior High School students

If there is more than one school in a municipality, establish criteria to select the school. You could also start with a random selection of those schools that are interested.

The Mock Council meeting will be held at school assembly (30-40 minutes). If possible, have the council meeting videotaped.

Invite the participating students to the next regular city council meeting, where the students will be presented with a certificate of participation by the mayor.

Teachers may also want to use this as an opportunity to teach students about the voting process, using the “Notice of Candidacy and Affidavit” and “Voter Registration” information from the Georgia Secretary of State’s Office.

Two weeks prior to your event, do the following:

- Provide students with handouts explaining Georgia’s city government overall
- Provide students with information on your city’s government structure
- Discuss with students:
 - Federal, state and local (county and municipal) levels of government
 - The roles of elected city government positions and appointed positions
 - Your city’s organizational structure
 - Budget
 - Types of issues with which the council deals
 - Municipal departments and how they affect citizens' lives
- Read and discuss the scenario, including some of the possible responses of citizens, business, elected and appointed officials
- If students are running for offices, hold an election at least one week before the mock council meeting

Other Options:

- Students may be encouraged to visit city hall and the city departments for a better understanding of how the city operates
- Invite representatives from throughout the community—including homeowner associations and local businesses—to discuss the scenario and how they might represent their perspectives on the issue.

The Meeting

Municipal Roles

Mayor: In a council-manager form of government, the mayor is the ceremonial head of the city, presiding over meetings and making appointments to city boards. The student assigned to this role will preside over the meeting, ensuring that it moves along and runs smoothly. The mayor will have the same authority and voting privilege as other council members.

Councilmembers: Councilmembers set policy for the city, using input from the city administrator/manager, department heads, citizens and other groups. The students in this role will analyze the situation, ask questions of city staff, get input from other groups and citizens and make a decision based upon their vision of the city and what is right for the community as a whole.

City Manager: The city manager handles the day-to-day operations of the city. He or she is called on to present facts, do research, make recommendations and carry out the policies set by the council. The student in this role will be responsible for presenting the overall view of the city and calling upon the city department heads for input into the issue.

City Clerk: The city clerk is responsible for taking minutes at the meeting and maintaining records and archives for the city. The student in this role will take and transcribe the minutes of the meeting.

City Attorney: The city attorney serves as a legal advisor to the city, giving legal opinions on issues affecting the city. The city attorney also drafts ordinances for the city and keeps the council informed on any laws or rulings that may affect the city. The student in this role will be responsible for ensuring that parliamentary procedures are followed in the mock city council meeting.
